

SOCIETY GIRL IS A MODEST ANGEL

Young Daughter of the Rich Is Sister to the Poor Secretly

WOULD NOT GIVE NAME

For Two Weeks She Nursed, Ironed and Bore Food to Tulsa Poor Family

Good deeds done in secret are sometimes the best.

Nowhere in Tulsa there is a young society girl whose lovely white hand, trained only for ornamentation and play, has yet been strong and kindly enough to draw safely her mother's hand across the water in the bitter waters of adversity, nor who has evidently not permitted her left hand any recognition of the deed.

Who she is, only she herself knows. She left the family only for the name, leaving all else—her food and clothing when there was very little of either in the humble home, engaged as physician for two sick little children, for two weeks was both nurse and maid. Now she has stepped out of her shoes as modestly as she entered, leaving only a fragrant memory of ever-lasting kindness.

There is partial explanation of her secrecy in her stated fear of her father's objection, but the real reason is that she does not like her inherent modesty and the cause of the "hard expression" in her face and faraway look in her eyes.

Mother Wrote Letter.

No one but the benefactors would know of the matter today, had not the mother put it in a heart-breaking letter to the Spanish government, another way to communicate her gratitude to the girl, written The World, over her own name and address. Let the mother tell the story:

"A young society girl of this city, with a hard expression on her face and a faraway look in her eyes, but who brought happiness and sunshine to a home of the poor in Tulsa. On hearing that a family was in need, she came to the poverty-stricken home of R. E. Martin with the mother bed and all the bedding, and took care of other small children very sick with typhoid and the father of the family being unable to work more than half the time on account of poor health. It seemed like everything was against us, but we could not get help when it was needed most, until this young lady found us without anything in the house to eat, she brought us a plentiful supply of everything, including food and clothing.

She also brought doctors and help and went to work herself to nurse the little ones back to health, staying with us almost continually day and night for two weeks, doing many of the household duties herself, even to washing, ironing and cooking. Now this sweet young girl refused to let her father know because she said her father would not approve of her coming to our home and helping us if he knew, but we can never thank her enough for the kindness she has shown, or for the wonderful things she did, even if we never know exactly what she did.

A Pretty Name.

She had a very pretty, double given name, and we have given that name to our new baby. I am well now and the children are on the road to recovery and up until a few days ago the dear sweet girl came to our home every day and brought milk and ice, and many things that were nice.

If there were only more people like her, the poor of this world would need a lot of suffering, we have written a letter to the newspaper asking the name and the address that she brought into our poverty-stricken home, or the sad expression on the face, and the faraway look in the brown eyes of the dear, sweet girl, who came to us as a guardian angel, so it seems, in the time of our need.

We did not know that so kind and generous-hearted a girl was often found among the rich. We cannot thank her enough and we want the people of this city to know that this dear, sweet girl is somewhere among them."

HOLD NOVEL BOX SUPPER

Shadow of Each Young Lady to Be Shown as Her Box Is Put Up. How to tell which box at the box supper was prepared by your girl has always been a masculine problem. Young men of Boston Avenue, M. E. church, south, will have more evidence at hand to solve this prob-

LIVELY WEEK FOR BUILDING PERMITS

Two-Story Residence of J. D. Simmons Leads the List

More than is customary at the box supper to be given by the Philistines Sunday school class Tuesday night is the shadow of each young woman just at the moment that the box made by her fair hands is held up by the Philistines pro tem. It is said that silhouettes are not sufficient for identification, but the young men are hoping for the best answer.

The young women's class is holding the annual to increase the balance in their treasury bank book to prepare for their work and compensating for a city Philistine union.

Talk of Barbecue for Men's Bible Classes

There are indications that the formal talk about a barbecue for all the men's Bible classes of the city may soon crystallize into definite plans. The outing held last fall at Turkey Mountain was an excellent success, and the men of the First Baptist church stated yesterday that individuals from several other organizations with whom they had discussed the matter favored staging the outing in September, and that a meeting of representatives of all the classes would probably be called in the near future.

East Third, residence, $1,500.

Longing the list of residence building permits issued during the past week was the one to J. D. Simmons, who is one of two-story 1413 North Cheyenne, cost $500. The house is to be 26 by 23 feet, with a basement 14 by 26 feet, or one-half the span of the house.

In point of amount the largest permit was issued by the board of education for reinforced concrete and steel work on the new school building at 412 South Cheyenne, just south of the municipal building, to replace the old Central high school building, which was demolished to make room for the new city office building that is to front on Boston avenue. The amount of the permit was $47,884, and covers only the skeleton.

With only two or three exceptions all the other permits issued last week were for private residences, garages or repairs, additions or alterations. Adams & Walker are building a residence at 1297 East Third, and 1619 East Cameron to cost $1,500. Next comes the permit issued to J. E. Hodnett for a brick store building at 302 North Greenwood, 16 the burnt district.

Mr. Murphy served in the famous Sixth Infantry and took part in some of the important engagements of the Philippines in 1899. He was a painter by trade, but a number of years ago was widely known as a tight promoter and number-dreamer of the "big game" fraternity among his intimate friends. The Pompeian Carpenter boy was the first to notice right he had missed for years only health keeping him away. This deceased had been a resident of Bartlesville for 18 years.

GALL STONES

Dr. E. E. Padlock, a physician of Kansas City, Mo., is giving away free an illustrated book that tells how hundreds of people have obtained relief from gall stones through the removal of treatment in cases of inflammation and research in the gall bladder at the University of Missouri. At 7 o'Clock Tomorrow Morning

Our doors open to the public, presenting an opportunity of the hour for every owner of a dollar to make it do its greatest possible duty—at the moment, as never before, people seek values—and for this very good reason we are confident of the outcome of this Greatest-of-All Sale.

We have bought extremely liberally, both in variety and volume. Even in the "good old days" we were not so well equipped to satisfy the demands of the public—and if you doubt our ability to handle the proposition we have undertaken it certainly is because you have failed to get acquainted with our equipment and organization—we also insist upon an observation of our sanitary features; of our courtesy and speed in giving service.

An Appeal to Your Common Sense

Assuming that the public understands that we dispense far more goods than anyone engaged in the same business in the entire southwest, we ask you this question: If you had the management of the People's Exchange, and was responsible for its continued prosperity, and understanding that the more goods you sell the cheaper you can sell them, and that your business was the logical one to arrest the attention of everybody with a dollar to spend, and that getting acquainted means a continuance of business relations, would you not seize this opportunity to acquaint the people with your business? Of course you would, and that is what the People's Exchange is doing—that is partly what has made us. If you have visited our store in the past you know what we mean—if not, now is the time to call on us—we are willing to let you draw your own conclusions, after a visit.

Our variety is too broad and bargains too many to quote prices in this announcement—we are aware that if our prices are not right we are the ones to suffer most and this is therefore your safeguard against deception. Therefore, if you are now, or expect to be in the market for the greatest values in wholesome, high grade, sanitary eatables, then come to see us Monday morning, August 15th, and get the surprise of your life.

Do you doubt our buying this mountain of groceries and meats at the right price? "Nuf sed." Come on down and get yours. Lay in a supply.

To the Retailers of Tulsa and Vicinity: You, too, are heartily solicited to call on us for your usual requirements.
